JAMES A. VOIRIN, DO, FAAFP, RESIGNS AS PRESIDENT OF THE FLORIDA OSTEOPATHIC MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

Tallahassee - The Florida Osteopathic Medical Association announced today that FOMA President James A. Voirin, DO, FAAFP has resigned, effective immediately. The FOMA would like to extend gratitude to Dr. Voirin for his years of service to the organization, on behalf of Florida's osteopathic physicians, and wish him success in his future endeavors. In accordance with the FOMA bylaws, President-elect Eric A. Goldsmith, DO, FACOS, will assume and serve as President for the remainder of Dr. Voirin's term.

ERIC A. GOLDSMITH, DO, FACOS

Dr. Goldsmith of Parkland, Florida, received his bachelor's degree from New York University, and is a graduate of the University of Osteopathic Medicine and Health Sciences, Des Moines, Iowa Class of 1984. He completed his internship at Des Moines General Hospital in Des Moines, Iowa, and General Surgery residency at Metropolitan Hospital System, Springfield, Pennsylvania, and Memorial Sloane-Kettering Hospital, New York City. As a resident he received the Meade Johnson Fellowship Grant. Dr. Goldsmith is AOA board certified in General Surgery. He has been named a fellow of the American College of Osteopathic Surgeons, 1995, International College of Surgeons, 1992, and American Society of Abdominal Surgeons, 2000.

Currently, Dr. Goldsmith is Assistant Dean for Clinical Affairs and Associate Professor of Surgery at NSU-KPCOM, Fort Lauderdale, Florida.

Dr. Goldsmith is a caring surgeon with a philosophy of "quality patient care first, always". He finds pleasure in medical education and the continuance of the osteopathic profession and devotes much time to these endeavors. Dr. Goldsmith is so very proud and thankful for his supportive family; loving wife Lorrie and children Captain Hank Goldsmith, Pilot, United States Air Force, and twins Hannah and Hunter.
